Who?

Miika's story

- As a small boy I was obsessed with cars and I draw them all the time to my notebook and designed my own models, my wall was decorated with classic sports car posters.
- My parents have told that every summer I did set up a stand to sell water and juice to my neighbors on hot summer days and dropping leaflets to their mailboxes
- On 2nd grade our family got our first computer and I became interested in computers
- These areas of passion led me to study digital marketing and (service) design

Once upon a time, in a small town filled with dreams, there lived a bright and imaginative 7-year-old boy named Ethan. Ethan was an extraordinary child with a burning passion for cars. His room was adorned with countless drawings of sleek and futuristic vehicles, each meticulously crafted with colored pencils and vibrant markers. He had a gift for envisioning cars that transcended the boundaries of what others deemed possible.

Ethan's fascination with cars didn't stop at merely designing them; he also had an entrepreneurial spirit. He dreamed of not only creating beautiful cars but also selling them to people who shared his love for automotive excellence. With determination sparkling in his eyes, Ethan set out to make his dreams a reality.

Every day after school, instead of playing with his friends, Ethan would spend hours poring over car design books and magazines. He devoured every piece of information, absorbing knowledge about aerodynamics, engineering, and the latest technological advancements in the automobile industry. His bedroom walls became adorned with posters of iconic car designers and pioneers who had left an indelible mark on the world.

Ethan's parents, seeing his unwavering passion, encouraged him in every way possible. They bought him model car kits, enrolled him in art classes, and even introduced him to a local car enthusiast group. It was there that Ethan's talent caught the attention of Mr. Johnson, a retired car designer with a wealth of experience.
